I think it's going to be pretty cool.

I feel like a GUI is a poor fit for that. How many rows can it do at 80 columns?

It will definitely be running in terminal mode, with a nice old-eye-friendly type face. Hopefully a little more than the original LCD, but not much :-)

Plenty of tweaking to come.

I thought about doing this a few times. lately thinking about doing this with one of those weird half display/half keyboard slabs and a pi. There is probably enough space behind the display.

Love the Model 100! This would be super usable without a mouse with a tiling window manager like i3wm.

Are the function keys mapped as well?
